MANNHEIM² IS IMPRESSIVE

Why is Mannheim known as the “city of squares”?

While the streets in other cities bear the names of famous people, Mannheim’s centre is made up of letters and numbers. Viewed from Mannheim Baroque Palace, blocks A to K are lined up on the left-hand side, while blocks L to U are on the right-hand side. The individual blocks also have numbers, running either clockwise (A to K) or anti-clockwise (L to U). The letters and numbers are then combined to form an address. For instance, you can find the town hall in “E5” and the “Stadthaus” in “N1”.

📍 Friedrichsplatz, 68161 Mannheim
📍 Wasserturm

WASSTERTURM AND FRIEDRICHSPLATZ

Mannheim was once known as “Little Paris”, and anyone who comes to the historic water tower will see why.

The greatest love of everyone from Mannheim? Definitely the historic water tower “Wasserturm”. This distinctive landmark stands impressively at the heart of one of the most beautiful Art Nouveau complexes in Europe, directly on “Friedrichsplatz” square. No wonder that it is taken as the backdrop for many wedding and holiday photos. It stands romantic and dreamy in the picturesque complex – with the water fountains, the historic lighting, the strolling paths and the arcades, it is a popular meeting place for both residents and visitors.

An absolute must for your visit: a photo with Mannheim’s most famous landmark! In the evenings, the historic lanterns and the historic water tower shine out brightly, providing a very special light show. You will get the best view from one of the cafés surrounding the square “Friedrichsplatz”. Under the arcades with a café au lait in your hand, you will soon start to enjoy a Mediterranean “joie de vivre”.

BY THE WAY

Look up to the top of the tower! Can you estimate how tall the statue is that graces the tip of the tower? It is the figure of Amphitrite, the wife of Poseidon, the god of the sea. Did you guess correctly? She is 3,50 metres tall.

📍 O1, 68161 Mannheim
 📍 Paradeplatz

PARADEPLATZ

This spacious square lies at the heart of the city centre.

Ten paths in a star formation lead to its centre, to the historic Grupello fountain. The green areas and the surrounding benches encourage you to take a little break, so you can watch the busy world go by and get a direct sense of the city's busy activity. For instance, you could use this moment to take a little refreshment and to enjoy a coffee, an ice cream or some pastries from the neighbouring cafés.

MARKTPLATZ

On market days lots of inhabitants and guests meet on the market square.

The Baroque backdrop for the weekly market, which takes place three times a week, is the combination of the old town hall and the parish church of St Sebastian – incidentally, the oldest building in Mannheim.

BY THE WAY

The district “Little Istanbul”, full of international flair, is located in the northern part of the city centre. Let yourself be inspired by the typical aromas and try some Turkish specialities – a mini-holiday for your senses!

📍 Starting point: Marktplatz, G1,

PLANKEN

The longest catwalk in the city and the most popular pedestrian zone in the entire region.

The main shopping street “Planken” in the city centre is 800 metres long, and runs from the historic water tower to “Paradeplatz” square. Strolling, shopping, making new discoveries in a beautiful ambience: this combination makes the “Planken” a true magnet for shopping fans, even far beyond the city boundary. Countless retailers from all sorts of industries, traditional department stores, concept stores, bookshops and of course all the famous brands, as well as the high density of shoe shops, leave nothing to be desired for any shopper.

MANNHEIM² IS INSPIRING

The museum landscape in Mannheim is characterised by renowned institutions that often draw the attention of the world to the city with their unique, international exhibitions.

Primarily, they include the museums “Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen”, the art gallery “Kunsthalle Mannheim” and Mannheim Baroque Palace, but smaller museums and galleries also contribute to the multifaceted programme for culture aficionados. Whether you are looking for photographic art, painting, etchings, graphics or sculptures made from all conceivable materials, the art scene in Mannheim has plenty to offer. For instance, there are regular performances, matinées and music events, as well as the exhibitions.

REISS-ENGELHORN-MUSEEN

In the heart of the city of Mannheim, the four museums of the “Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen” (rem, for short) form a separate museum quarter with an excellent reputation that reaches far beyond this particular region.

Experience fascinating cultural history in one of the most significant museums in Europe, whose foundation stone was laid back in the 18th century by the Elector Carl Theodor. Be it objects from Egypt, the land of immortality, or extraordinary exhibits from the world of music or contemporary art, the spectacular collections and special exhibitions from the fields of archaeology, cultural and art history, and photography regularly amaze visitors from all over the world. After visiting the museum, treat yourself to a delicious dish on the summer terrace or in the extraordinary setting of the “C Five” restaurant, right in the courtyard of the “Museum Zeughaus”.

KUNSTHALLE MANNHEIM

The art gallery has always been far more than just a museum. It is a prestige object and a treasure trove, a meeting place, and a driver of new innovations.

The currently largest new building of an art museum in Germany is located in the heart of Mannheim. The building, which is encased in a bronze-coloured metal mesh, was designed by the architectural agency, gmp – Gerkan, Marg und Partner. Designed as an open “city in the city”, the art museum allows its visitors to stroll between the gallery rooms, a restaurant, a shop and an open storage facility. International artists such as William Kentridge, Dan Graham, Alicja Kwade and Anselm Kiefer are presented with new location-specific works. The Grand Opening of the new “Kunsthalle Mannheim” will take place in June 2018. The first special exhibition will be dedicated to the international photographic artist, Jeff Wall. After that, “Die Konstruktion der Welt. Kunst und Ökonomie” (“The structure of the world. Art and economy”) will present for the first time the influence of the economy on art in the 20th and 21st centuries in a global comparison.

CHURCHES IN MANNHEIM

As a lover of sacred architecture, a truly huge variety is waiting for you in Mannheim!

There are 89 houses of God from various eras in the city. Come and visit churches, synagogues and mosques. Apart from the “Jesuitenkirche” and the “Christuskirche”, which are probably the most famous examples in Mannheim, you can also discover small chapels, huge, splendid buildings and modern architecture and immerse yourself in the peaceful quiet of these special places.

BY THE WAY

The chapel “Magdalenenkapelle” in the district of Straßenheim, with sections dating back to the 13th century, is regarded as the oldest chapel within the boundaries of Mannheim.

JESUITENKIRCHE

This is one of the most impressive sacred buildings in Mannheim and is located in the immediate vicinity of the Baroque Palace.

The former court church features an impressive exterior and boasts an equally splendid interior. As you enter the church, your breath will surely be taken away as the interior of this Catholic parish church is simply so magnificent. The interior designed by Paul Egell and Peter Anton von Verschaffelt, among others, is rich in Baroque works of art such as the high altar and the ceiling fresco.

CHRISTUSKIRCHE

The Protestant church “Christuskirche” features an imposing, tower-shaped dome and a curved, Baroque floor plan.

With its splendid, neo-Baroque exterior, it blends beautifully with the surrounding villa quarter in the city’s eastern district – the Protestant church completed in 1911 is one of the most striking in the city. You will find several impressive elements in the interior: the northern gallery houses one of the largest organs in Germany, the Steinmeyer organ dating back to 1911.

📱 Nationaltheater

NATIONALTHEATER MANNHEIM AND JUNGES NTM

Tradition and modernity, opera, theatre, dance and also a National Youth Theatre united under a single roof.

The “Nationaltheater Mannheim” (NTM, for short) is one of the largest and oldest municipal repertory theatres in Germany. Even great German artists such as Schiller and Mozart have performed here. Numerous world premieres and German premieres demonstrate the innovative and contemporary continuation of this tradition. In the youth theatre “Junges NTM”, you can experience image theatre, fairy-tale and narrative theatre or one of the many independent plays on burning issues, as well as classics adapted for a young audience.

BY THE WAY

What does the “Nationaltheater Mannheim” have to do with tennis?

Although they seem to have nothing in common, they share a common past! On the site that is now the home to the opera, theatre and dance and where the curtain rises every night on the world-famous stage, there used to be a tennis club with seven large courts until the new theatre was built in 1957.
